

The Star

Sunday May 22, 1921

Jackie the Babboon

To go over Caporal Jackie's life :

Good morning, everyone ! I will tell you a piece of news... Caporal Jackie the Babboon died yesterday... So we going to talk about him to remember him yesterday !

Let's start by caporal Jackie was a babboon (a monkey race) abd he was south african. Then he worked by the third infantry regiment and he fought in France and Egypte by the some campagne.

During the WWI in France on the frontline Jackie warn off German attack thank to his sence of hear. Then he was received shell on one leg and after he was amputeted because her leg, was many blood.

Before his dead, he awarded by the nation for all help he gave, he was awarded too of a promotion from private to corporal and pretoria citizens gave a medal of valour for Jackie.

We must to remember this spectaculer animal with happiness and we must be proud of this animal too !! Thank Jackie rest in peace bye.

Robert art.

SERGEANT BILLY AND HIS HEROIC DEEDS

The Canadian goat accomplished lots of missions

Sergeant Billy is dead. He is the only war goat that survived combat. He was special because once, at night, he heard a grenade fall on the ground. He ran to the soldiers who were asleep and jumped on them to warn them of the incoming explosions. He ended up saving 3 members off his unit by pushing them into a trench.

He had lots of qualities such as strength, intelligence and he was very useful.

He won a victory medals for his heroic actions ; he guarded prisoners and he was gassed twice. Sergeant Billy was owned by the Canadian 5th infantry Battalion.